

WOOLWORTHS
LIQUOR
GROUP

As a result of Brad Banducci taking on the role of Managing Director – Australian Food and Liquor, the Woolworths Liquor Group has made a number of subsequent changes to its management team.

Martin Smith has been formally appointed to the role of Managing Director of the Woolworths Liquor Group, reporting to Brad.

Martin possesses 45 years of Australian retail experience, including a total of 33 years at Woolworths Limited, and has been acting in the Managing Director role since February this year. He joined Dan Murphy's as National Operations Manager in 2002 and became Dan Murphy's General Manager in 2008.

Campbell Stott has been appointed as the General Manager of Dan Murphy's, reporting to Martin.

Campbell has over 14 years retail experience, and joined the Woolworths business in 2000. He has been with Dan Murphy's for most of his time since joining, aside from enjoying a brief stint with the Produce team in 2007. His most recent role was as Merchandise Manager for Dan Murphy's where he has been since 2013.

Michael Jackson has been formally appointed as the National Merchandise Manager for Dan Murphy's.

Michael joined the business in 2013 and has added significant value in his role as Dan Murphy's Head of Wine and we look forward to his continued success working with our Merchandise team.

As a result of this appointment, the current Merchandise Structure for Dan Murphy's has been reviewed to best position the business on its journey to be The World's Best Drinks Retailer.

To promote better alignment in the execution of its category strategies, the two portfolios of Non-Liquor and Spirits/RTD's & Cider have been merged under Adam Jenkins in the role of Dan Murphy's Head of Spirits and Non-Liquor.

The roles in this team remain unchanged however will fall under the wider responsibility of Adam.

Dan Murphy's is making further investment in the Beer category by adding the role of Dan Murphy's Head of Beer and splitting the Commercial and Craft Business Manager roles.

This creates two vacancies in the roles of Dan Murphy's Head of Beer; and Business Manager - Craft Beer which will be advertised internally.